

Book Reading

Ujjwal Baskota

May 2017

1 Introduction

Hi everyone, I am Ujjwal Baskota and I am a student like you guys. Here, I will discuss some of the books I used to read as a child.

2 Favourite books during my childhood days

When I was a kid my mom and dad used to bring me a lot of books to read during weekends and vacations. But, there was a huge contradiction between my mom's opinion and my dad's opinion of reading books. My mom wanted me to read the books that were suitable to my age where as, my dad wanted me to read non-fictions or professional books. "Old man and the sea" and "Rich dad poor dad" were my favourite books. "Old man and the sea" describes the struggle one has to do to keep his life moving where as "Rich dad poor dad" teaches us to manage the financial portion of our life.

Some popular quotes from these books:

"In school we learn that mistakes are bad, and we are punished for making them. Yet, if you look at the way humans are designed to learn, we learn by making mistakes. We learn to walk by falling down. If we never fell down, we would never walk." [2] "A man is not made for defeat...a man can be destroyed but not defeated." [1]

3 Conclusion

Today, I might not remember what I studied in my high school but I remember each and every book that I studied beside my course books. Books empower us and make us able to view the world differently. Since all of you are young, I suggest you all to read as much books as you can because as you get older what you know matters more than your what your GPA is.

References

- [1] Donald F. Geesaman. The old man and the sea. In AIP Conference Proceedings, volume 1261, pages 55–60, 2010.
- [2] Robert T Kiyosaki. Rich Dad Poor Dad. In eBook, page 274. 1997.